

EDITORIAL

It gives me immense pleasure that the first issue of second volume of Journal of Universal College of Medical Sciences is ready for publication. The editorial team is working hard to improve the quality of publications from previous issue to next issue. To raise the quality of Journal, beside the editorial team, the author's articles also are great determinants. The articles have been selected in such a way that they are of interest to disciplines of medical and dental science. We wish to get articles from authors working in different institutes in Nepal, India or other developing countries. Anyone who wishes to be member of editorial team to review the articles is most welcome to send their bio-data along with field of speciality.

The present issue has original articles on interesting topics like “Conjunctivalautograft in pterygium surgery”, “Seasonal variation of skin diseases in children”, “Gender determinants from finger prints” and some other topics of day today relevance. I wish to congratulate all of the members of editorial team for their hard work.
