BEST WISHES...

Two Years have gone by when we started "Nepalese Journal of ENT Head & Neck Surgery." During this period, the journal published original articles, case reports, medical education, review articles, how I do it and book reviews. The journal was blessed with few international articles.

As mentioned in the previous issue our senior managing editor Dr. Prakash Adhikari sustained a very terrible head injury and now he is living almost a vegetative life. The editorial board feels very sorry for him & his family and pray to the Lord for quick recovery of his health.

Our aim has always been to improve the quality of this Journal. Very shortly, we are planning to correspond to the concerned authorities for indexing the journal.

As this is an official financial biannual publication of the Society of Otolaryngologists of Nepal, a new editorial board is being formed under the able leadership of Prof. Anil Kumar Jha, the newly elected president of the society. I offer best wishes and grand success to the new editorial board in their tenure to uplift the quality of this journal.

My sincere thanks go to all peer reviewers, editor, managing editors all the members of Editorial advisory board national and international, all the contributors for the article and advertisement for helping to bring this journal to this stage.
