

Editorial Note

We are pleased to present Volume 8, Issue 2 (July 2026) of the AMC Journal (Dhangadhi), published by the Research Management Cell (RMC), Aishwarya Multiple Campus, Dhangadhi, Kailali, Nepal. On the successful publication of this issue, we extend our heartfelt gratitude to our valued readers, researchers, academicians, reviewers, and well-wishers whose continued encouragement and support have made this publication possible.

The AMC Journal (Dhangadhi) serves as a multidisciplinary platform for the dissemination of quality research in the natural sciences, social sciences, management, education, and related disciplines. The publication of this eighth volume reflects our continued commitment to promoting academic excellence, research culture, and scholarly communication within and beyond our institution.

This issue comprises eleven peer-reviewed research articles contributed by scholars from diverse academic fields. The journal particularly encourages original research conducted by faculty members, researchers, and students to foster critical inquiry, analytical thinking, innovation, and evidence-based knowledge. Through this publication, we aspire to strengthen research capacity and contribute to the advancement of higher education and society.

To ensure academic quality and integrity, all submitted manuscripts underwent a double-blind peer-review process conducted by experts in the respective fields. Authors revised their manuscripts in response to the constructive comments and recommendations provided by the reviewers. Throughout the review process, the identities of both authors and reviewers were kept confidential to maintain fairness, impartiality, and academic standards. Following careful revision, editorial screening, and proofreading, the accepted manuscripts were compiled for publication.

The successful publication of this issue would not have been possible without the dedicated efforts of the Publication Committee, the Research Management Cell, peer reviewers, the Editorial Board, the Advisory Board, and all contributing authors. We express our sincere appreciation to every individual whose commitment, expertise, and cooperation have contributed to maintaining the quality and credibility of this journal.

Although every effort has been made to ensure accuracy and maintain high editorial standards, inadvertent errors or omissions may still remain. We accept full responsibility for any such shortcomings in the editorial process and welcome constructive comments and suggestions from our readers. Their valuable feedback will help us further improve the quality of future issues.

We sincerely hope that the articles published in this issue will provide meaningful insights, stimulate scholarly discussion, and encourage further research across various disciplines.
