It is a matter of immense pleasure to publish the Economic Review of Nepal published by the Department of Economics, Ratna Rajyalaxmi Campus. The department is making efforts for the publication of scholarly articles on various areas of economics in English medium. This journal containing five articles has a variety of writing in the sphere of economics; these articles are highly useful to those interested in micro and macro variables of economics literature. Economic issues are taken as a key component of this age in the twenty-first century, the age of globalization and commercialization. It is hoped that this academic work could quench readers' appetites to some extent.

Finally, it is claimed that the strength of this journal rests on the inclusion of diverse issues of micro and macro variables. It is hoped that the journal may be useful for interested scholars, students of economics, and other interested readers. Constructive suggestions from the side of readers are highly welcome and will be incorporated in the coming issues to make it more comprehensive.
