Research Management Cell (RMC) of Triyuga Janata Multiple Campus has been publishing Triyuga Academic Journal since 2021 as a research journal. It aims to explore the comprehensive theme to cope with modern academic and innovation challenges. This multi-disciplinary research assists professional practices as well as innovations. Furthermore, it is an off-shoot of disciplinary specialization. It is hoped to address the need of learners in the present global context. In the form of multi-disciplinary journal, RMC has set an effort in this issue through mosaic of disciplines and contemporary issues.

The overall goal of the RMC is to help by improving the quality of higher education blending teaching and research to meet indigenous to global people's needs. Thus, the primary purpose of this cell is to enhance academic promotion through individual or collaborative research of students, faculties, peer students, students-faculties or peer faculties. Likewise, the innovation comes via trainings, workshops, seminars, conferences, visits as well.

This volume 4, 2025 consists of eleven articles from authors with diverse academic backgrounds. The common themes are drawn from ICT, social-economic issues, religion, anthropology, language and literature, as well as environment. First of all, use of ICT, use of mobile phone, Google Translating, and virtual classes are four articles, which are concerned with modern technocrafts such as AI, Zoom. Then, two articles are concerning Buddhism, which is the vehicle of world peace and five precepts i.e. good governance. After that, ethnographic accounts of Santhals, who belongs to the same clan of Draupadi Murmu, president of India and are minority in the eastern Nepal and one of the major indigenous groups of India, are carried out. Next, one article is associated with climatic change and its effects in the local to global contexts. Finally, the two articles are about study on indigenous Limbu language and linguistics and a story Bensitir from Nepali literature, which sheds light on marginalization of Nepalese society.

The editorial board extends its gratitude to TUCL, all the reviewers, authors, plagiarism checkers, and printers: Karki Chhapakhana & Learner's Village who have contributed to publish this Triyuga Academic Journal.
