

Editorial

It is with great pleasure that we present Vox Batauli, Volume 10, a milestone edition that reflects the academic enthusiasm, critical thinking, and creative spirit of our contributors. Over the years, Vox Batauli has grown into a vibrant platform for scholars, teachers, and students to share their research insights, literary expressions, and intellectual reflections. This tenth volume stands as a testament to our collective commitment to promoting a culture of inquiry and scholarly engagement within Butwal Multiple Campus and beyond.

The articles and creative pieces included in this volume represent diverse perspectives across disciplines, offering readers fresh ideas, rigorous analyses, and thoughtful explorations of contemporary issues. We extend our sincere appreciation to all contributors for their dedication and to our reviewers for their valuable feedback in refining the works. Our gratitude also goes to the campus administration, faculty members, and the editorial team whose consistent support and cooperation have made this publication possible.

As Vox Batauli enters its tenth year, we reaffirm our dedication to encouraging academic discourse, nurturing young researchers, and strengthening the tradition of publication within our academic community. We hope that this volume inspires further inquiry and continues to serve as a meaningful resource for readers.
